CNP Assurances supports APAJH Awards for the 13th consecutive year

As a partner of 13th annual APAJH awards, CNP Assurances reaffirms its commitment to the integration of persons with disabilities.

Today in Paris, CNP Assurances will present the Town Citizenship and Public Service award (Ville citoyenne et service public) in recognition of public and private initiatives promoting the social integration of persons with disabilities, at an awards ceremony organised by the Association for Youth and Adults with Disabilities (APAJH).

This award honours public initiatives aimed at ensuring equal access for disabled citizens and fostering understanding of their needs in towns and public services. As a partner of the awards since their inception, CNP Assurances is mobilising once again for the social integration of persons with disabilities.

CNP Assurances has been committed to promoting diversity and non-discrimination in the workplace since 1995. In 2015, the Group signed an agreement with social partners, for the seventh time, on the employment of workers with disabilities.

CNP Assurances' steadfast commitment to equality and diversity in the workplace was recognised in 2009, when the Group obtained the label Diversité, which was renewed in 2012, and then again in 2016, for four additional years.

CNP Assurances also strives to raise awareness on a daily basis among its employees and managers, with a view to broadening their perspective on all forms of disability.
