

COVID-19: Fondation CNP Assurances offer breaks to students in the healthcare sector in recognition of their efforts

Thanks to Fondation CNP Assurances, students in the healthcare sector, who have rallied during the public health crisis, will be able to benefit from the "A bus for a campus" initiative and take advantage of a week of recuperation. The operation "A bus for a campus", carried along by UCPA and student organizations of which FAGE (Fédération des Associations Générales Etudiantes - Federation of general student associations) is supported by CNOUS (Centre National des Œuvres Universitaires et Scolaires) and ANCV (Agence Nationale des Chèques-Vacances).

For this special edition towards students in the healthcare sector, Fondation CNP Assurances, a FAGE partner since 2016, is extending its support to vulnerable students by supporting the "A bus for a campus" operation with a donation of €30K.

The beneficiaries of this scheme are mainly student caregivers of various specialities (medicine, nursing care, pharmacy, dentistry, maieutics, physiotherapy etc.) who have mobilised since the start of the COVID-19 public health crisis. Some have gone to hospitals and care units to help healthcare professionals combat the virus, while others have looked after their children.

Fondation CNP Assurances' support will enable these students to unwind during a week-long "sport, health, well-being" stay in UCPA centres. Buses departing from the two regions of Grand Est and Île-de-France will be chartered to take the students to their holiday destination.

"While many young people finance their studies by making great sacrifices, some have been forced to abandon a job or an internship in order to take action during the public health crisis. Following this challenging period, it would be beneficial to give them an opportunity to rest a little", said FAGE president Orlane François.

"Thanks to the "A bus for a campus" operation and in partnership with FAGE, alongside which we have worked since 2016 to help the most vulnerable students, we can express our appreciation to future healthcare professionals and highlight the exceptional commitment they have shown throughout this pandemic period", said Agathe Sanson, director of Strategic Marketing, Communication and Sponsorship at CNP Assurances, and Vice-Chair of Fondation CNP Assurances.

About Fondation CNP Assurances

Working to tackle major public health challenges for over 20 years, the Fondation CNP Assurances has made reducing social inequality in terms of health a priority focus. It is also involved in the "Saving lives" strategic focus. Its role is to support and assist innovative projects that benefit society and provide concrete ways of improving equal opportunities in the health sector.

About FAGE

The French federation of general student associations (FAGE) is the largest youth organisation in France. It was founded in 1989, and its operation is based on participatory democracy bringing together some 2,000 associations and unions, and around 300,000 students. The purpose of FAGE is to ensure equal opportunities for success in the educational system. That is why it strives to constantly improve living and studying conditions for young people, by organising activities in the field of representation and defence of rights. By managing services and projects that meet social needs, it is also a driver of social innovation.

FAGE is recognised as the leading student-representation organisation by the minister for higher education. It is independent of political parties, employee unions and student-health programmes, and bases its actions on a militant, humanist and pragmatic approach. As a stakeholder in the social economy, it also has a youth and education accreditation from the minister for young people.
